Vagrant Boys.
A gentleman having occasion to frequently pass by the Atkin House desires us to call public attention and the notice of the authorities to a class of vulgar, profane and boisterous boys that congregate about the steps on the west side of the Atkin House on the public walk. They are a nuisance and the police ought to look after them.

Just Got In.
G. B. McCarty, one of Morrisown's live merchants, has just returned from Knoxville, where he has been to lay in a supply of Spring and Summer goods, and he got them—dry goods, groceries, boots, shoes, hats, etc. Also a full line of millinery goods—Morrisown Gazette.
Of course, he got what he wanted. The wholesale houses of Knoxville are prepared to sell at as advantageous rates as Eastern dealers.

The Council Chamber.
The city council chamber has been fitted up in a neat and comfortable manner for the sessions of the Board of Aldermen and presents an appearance highly creditable to the taste of the Committee on Buildings. The floor is covered with cream matting and the walls and ceiling freshly painted, the cornice ornamented with a border of green and gold.

A slightly raised stand has been placed at the north end of the room on which is a fine walnut desk finished in oil, for the convenience of the Mayor and Recorder. The room is furnished with a long table covered with oilcloth and two dozen office chairs from the furniture establishment of Messrs. Bistone & May.

Case of Destitution.
On yesterday morning a colored woman who gave her name as Mary Cowan, was found under the porch of Mr. A. C. Bruce's house, and on being questioned told a tale of suffering that appealed to the sympathy of those who heard her. She had been ill for some time, and lived with a woman named Amanda Smith until Tuesday night, when she was turned out of doors and started out in search of shelter, when her strength gave way and she lay down where she was found.

Alderman Mariner was informed of the circumstances, and calling in the aid of Officers Harper and Cole, she was provided with temporary lodgings at Andy Moffatt's, on Grove street.

Such instances, although rare, show the necessity of a public hospital or a house of refuge.
Tuesday night, it will be remembered, was quite cold, and the poor creature must have suffered severely from exposure.

The Workmen.
Perhaps no class of men on this continent have been more imposed upon and grossly outraged than the workmen of the United States. They have been regarded as an inferior race, devoid of brains, poverty-stricken, and socially unequal to the higher classes of society.
In the estimation of the rich and purse-proud, they have been considered as only fit to be used as so many mules in dray carts. Hence they have been shoved aside and treated with coldness and contempt. But we have sympathized with them in their fearful struggles with adverse circumstances, nor attempted to ameliorate their down-trodden condition. They have been forced to work out the hard problem of life single-handed and alone.

But let me suggest, to all workmen who may read this article that the day of their redemption is near at hand. All the indications are that way, if I have not misconceived the character of the times. A higher degree of intelligence and respect is being shown them, and politicians are beginning to court them, and the higher classes are discovering that there is some merit even in mechanics and laboring men.

There is a reason for all this, and it lies in the broad fact that the working men are beginning to use the necessity of rallying to each other's support and of pressing on to higher attainments in intelligence. In the Northern States they are organizing, forming compact bodies and thus preparing to assert their strength and influence. They have their "unions" and they extend in every direction.
There is scarcely a town of any significance where these "unions" do not exist. Nor are they unshapen masses. They are clearly defined and the whole machinery reduced to a thorough system. They have a mastery organ through which they speak and their utterances are bold, progressive and intelligent.

I have said that these "unions" extend in every direction. There are several in this city, and they are doing all over the States. There is one in embryo in this city, and the prospect now is that it will become formidable. Valuable material belongs to it. Brains and energy control it. I predict for it a bright future. Then I understand that there is to be a gathering of the mechanics soon to put the ball more fully in motion. WORKINGMAN.

Live Stock Market.
CATTLE.
Notwithstanding the dullness which characterized the market at our last report, the receipts of cattle during the past week have been very good, and taken altogether we believe the general quality of those offered exceeds that of any previous week this season. Considering the scarcity of grain in East Tennessee, it is astonishing that such a large number have been furnished this year. We have several times heard the remark that more fat cattle have been sold in Knoxville this year than ever before. How true this is we are not prepared to say, as we have not statistics before us, but if correct, it certainly is an evidence of the increased interest our farmers are taking in stock raising. To our Northern readers, who are looking to our section for homes, we point to the average gross weight of the cattle sold this week as corroborating our former statements, that East Tennessee has all the advantages of a stock raising country. The number sold during the week was 123 head, making an aggregate gross weight of 140,285 pounds. Among those who have sold fine cattle during the week we may mention Mr. Easley, Mr. Hope and Mr. N. B. Brice—the latter gentleman disposing of sixteen head of the best cattle mentioned in our reports. It is said to be the finest lot of steers in East Tennessee. Two of the sixteen sold, three years old, grossed 3,035 pounds. Several car loads were shipped to other markets, by Messrs. Fanz & Jones and Mr. Knoxville this year than ever before. How true this is we are not prepared to say, as

other markets, by Messrs. Fanz & Jones and Mr. Knoxville this year than ever before. How
true this is we are not prepared to say, as
correct, it certainly is an evidence of the increased interest our farmers are taking in
that East Tennessee has all the advantages of a
stock raising country. The number sold dur-
gregate gross weight of 140,285 pounds. Among those who have sold fine cattle during the week
Mr. N. B. Brice—the latter gentleman disposing
